

WASHINGTON MARYLAND VIRGINIA

HOME & DESIGN

The Magazine of Luxury Homes and Fine Interiors WINTER 2006

DREAM KITCHENS

Clever Renovations and Hot New Products

LIVING COLOR
Design House

Modern Living in Great Falls
Elegant Maryland Makeover
Arts & Crafts Retreat in Potomac

www.HomeandDesign.com

55.95US $6.95CAN 02 >

0 70989 34 2 39 2

Mountain Retreats

(continued from page 261)

The Greenbrier Sporting Club, White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia

The Greenbrier Sporting Club, a new private residential sporting community located on the grounds of the historic Greenbrier resort, offers unparalleled access to the resort's world-class amenities, as well as a wide variety of features and activities available only to the community's homeowners. Here you can choose to spend an afternoon on one of four golf courses, fly-fishing in a nearby lifestyles at Greenbrier Sporting Club. Home sites offer mountain, creek-side and fairway views. Homes feature distinct architectural styles, and range from custom estates to mountain cottages to classic white clapboard designs.

The newest Sporting Club community, Greenbrier Summit Village, sits majestically at the 3,300-foot summit of Greenbrier

Mountain. A scenic three-mile road from the valley floor leads to Greenbrier Summit Village, and all 41 home sites promise what can only be described as awe-inspiring views, encompassing the Sporting Club, a private new golf course called The Snead, The Greenbrier Resort and Greenbrier Valley. Along with all of the Sporting Club's extensive amenities, homeowners in Greenbrier Summit Village enjoy their own community Sports Barn featuring a range of recreational and social amenities.

Residents of Greenbrier Sporting Club have four golf courses to choose from. Three are part of the Greenbrier resort, and are open to homeowners as well, while the fourth is a private course open stream, shooting sporting clays, relaxing in an Eastern-inspired spa, skiing or snowshoeing, whitewater rafting or simply exploring the abundant natural habitat surrounding your home. At the end of the day a refreshing visit to the Sports Complex or a relaxing meal in the member's lodge awaits.

(continued on page 264)

At the Greenbrier Sporting Club, homeowners have access to a number of golf courses (top), as well as the clubhouse (above).

Buyers can choose from a variety of new home neighborhoods and mountain

Mountain Retreats

(continued from page 262)

only to Greenbrier Sporting Club homebuyers. The Snead golf course, named after Greenbrier's longtime golf pro Sam Snead, was designed by Tom Fazio, and features 18 holes covering 7,025-yards, and five sets of tees. The practice range features target greens and simulated holes as well as a short game section including fairway, green and bunker shots.

Sporting Club homeowners also have access to The Greenbrier resort's three 18-hole championship golf courses and the resident Golf Digest Academy. All the courses offer unique challenges and breathtaking views of the surrounding Allegheny Mountains.

Properties at The Greenbrier Sporting Club range in size from one-half to 10 acres and will be scattered among 10 neighborhoods. Upon completion, the development will include no more than 500 homes. Room service and shuttle buses are available at all locations. Home sites are priced from the $400s.

For more information on The Greenbrier Sporting Club, call (888) 741-8989, or visit the Web site www.thegreenbriersportingclub.com.