

Bartzen + Ball Architects was established in 2001 by Bernard “Tut” Bartzen, Jr. and Maynard M. Ball. We are a Virginia-based practice noted for our ability to provide innovative and sensitive design solutions within well established contexts, whether they are neighborhoods, resorts, or larger campus environments.

Our design philosophy and our ability to listen carefully to our clients have become hallmarks of a practice rooted in traditional design principles, and the belief that our efforts are in large part a result of an ongoing collaboration with others. While our buildings are informed by tradition and the influence of the regional climate and topography, we strive to build with modern and efficient building technologies, ensuring that each project is a part of its environment, and also its time.

With each project, our goal is to provide a simple and elegant design solution. The careful selection of materials, attention to the smallest detail and rigorous pursuit of design excellence guide our practice. We encourage our clients to participate in all aspects of the design process and we welcome the opportunity to discuss your project.
