

DALGLIESH GILPIN PAXTON ARCHITECTS

ARCHITECTURE + HISTORIC PRESERVATION + PLANNING + INTERIOR DESIGN

Your home should be tailored to fit your life, tastes, and budget. Planning and building it should be fun and invigorating. Our approach is simple – we treat your home with the same care and attention with which we treat our own. Most of our projects come from repeat and referral clientele who appreciate our elegant designs, collaborative style, and careful budget management.

Dalgliesh Gilpin Paxton Architects designed the first houses built at the Greenbrier Resort, the Creekside Cottages and the Redan/Longmeadow neighborhood. Since then, we have completed residences on the golf courses, in the Ridges neighborhood, and on the Summit, as well as Howard's Creek Mill, Howard's Creek Lodge, and the Hotel gatehouse.

For 80 years we have worked with many architectural styles and building types throughout the United States and the Caribbean Islands, including sites of national importance, such as Colonial Williamsburg and monuments in Washington, D.C. Our sustainable designs are custom fit to your unique site, program, and budget, while complementing the vernacular architecture and landscape.

We strive to exceed your expectations, artfully integrating the house, landscape, and interior design to create a timeless setting full of natural light and with strong connections to the outdoors.
