R.A. Hoffman, Architects is a full service architectural firm specializing in custom residential design of primary and vacation homes. Based in the Main Line suburbs of Philadelphia, we have completed projects in eleven states, as well as in resort destinations such as Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard, the Caribbean, and, of course, The Greenbrier. Our award winning work has been recognized locally and nationally, and has appeared in numerous publications.

If one were to sum up our design philosophy, it would be "let's make it fun"! From custom homes to additions and renovations and beyond, our designs combine the character of yesterday with interiors for today's lifestyles. We believe that great architecture has a timeless quality. Even though many of our houses speak of the past, we design for the way families live today. Understanding that our clients may include work-at-home parents, kids and pets, we design homes that fit the family, not make the family fit the home. We recognize that good designs come from the collaboration between our clients and ourselves.

In addition to taking inspiration from yesterday's homes, we also take inspiration from a home's site. Site and home should be as one. It is important to us that character of home and location compliment each other. We want our designs to fit into their natural surroundings. All buildings should have a rhythm and be pleasing to the eye. Every building should respond to its site and each facade should be appealing. By combining appropriate materials and details in our designs, we believe we achieve that end.

Rene Hoffman is the president and principal of R. A. Hoffman Architects, founded in 1996. Beginning his firm after nearly 20 years of experience with clients and behind the drafting boards, Rene has created a dynamic office with a total of 6 registered architects with over 100 years combined experience. Continuing contact with past clients and a relaxed office atmosphere provides R.A. Hoffman Architects a solid base for work from personal and professional referrals. Rene's knowledge, personality, and vision bring to the project the right balance of interaction and respect for the project. Focusing on residential architecture has been our backbone and our specialty; in recent years we have struck out into the commercial and ecumenical fields from past client contacts.
